Personal Statement

I have endured a lot of obstacles that a child and teenager should not face under normal circumstances, but which helped me to shape myself into what I am right now. Being brought up in an orphanage under strict regulations and isolated from the usual pleasures of life, I have learned to conform to duties and obligations and appreciate the simple aspects in life. I have also worked in several previous jobs each which added significant value to my skills, be it personal, academic, social, interpersonal or hierarchal skills. Hence, I eagerly look forwards to working with you and giving you all my best in order to be an added value to your workforce and to suffice my aspirations of looking for a brighter future.
