SWEETNESS INSIDE

"Smushkies thinks the world would be a better place if there was more love out there..."

Scarlette and Sophia have the same laugh, the same freckled cheeks and wore their bright, fiery ginger hair the same way. But on the inside, they were as different as day and night.

Scarlett had always chosen blue over pink, superheroes over Barbie dolls, and sneakers over heels, unlike Sophia who favored tea parties as a kid, and always wore her pink nail polish to match her classy fashion sense.

The only thing they shared was their love for sweets. And this is how they re-united. Neither of them knew she had an identical twin sister until less than two years ago...

Fate brought them together, as they were both asked to cater a masquerade ball. Scarlett, for her specialty in cookies, and Sophia, for her passion in producing the best ice cream ever.

Both wearing masks they couldn't see each other. But when people started talking to Scarlett as if she was Sophia and to Sophia as if she was Scarlett, things began to get confusing, up until both sisters bumped into each other and realized this uncanny resemblance.

It was then and there and for their sweet affection for cookies and ice cream that the two girls decided to open up "Smushkies", a place to bring people together and spread the love, for it was the same factor that brought the sisters together.
